Nicolás and Antonia are two lifelong friends who see how the rest of their friends enjoy stability emotionally and professionally, while they are a disaster. After attending more than a dozen other people's weddings and looking for the economic boost they need to fulfill their dreams, they decide to launch a cheeky but brilliant idea: get married! But they won't really do it, their plan is to announce their supposed hidden love, organize a big wedding, collect the money for the gifts and have Antonia leave Nicolás at the altar. They assume that after the scandal no one will be able to ask for the gift back and so they will divide the loot to fund their dreams.
