

History · 2015 · 104' · Spain

Barcelona, the rose of fire

Direction: Manuel Huerga

Script: Lluís Arcarazo

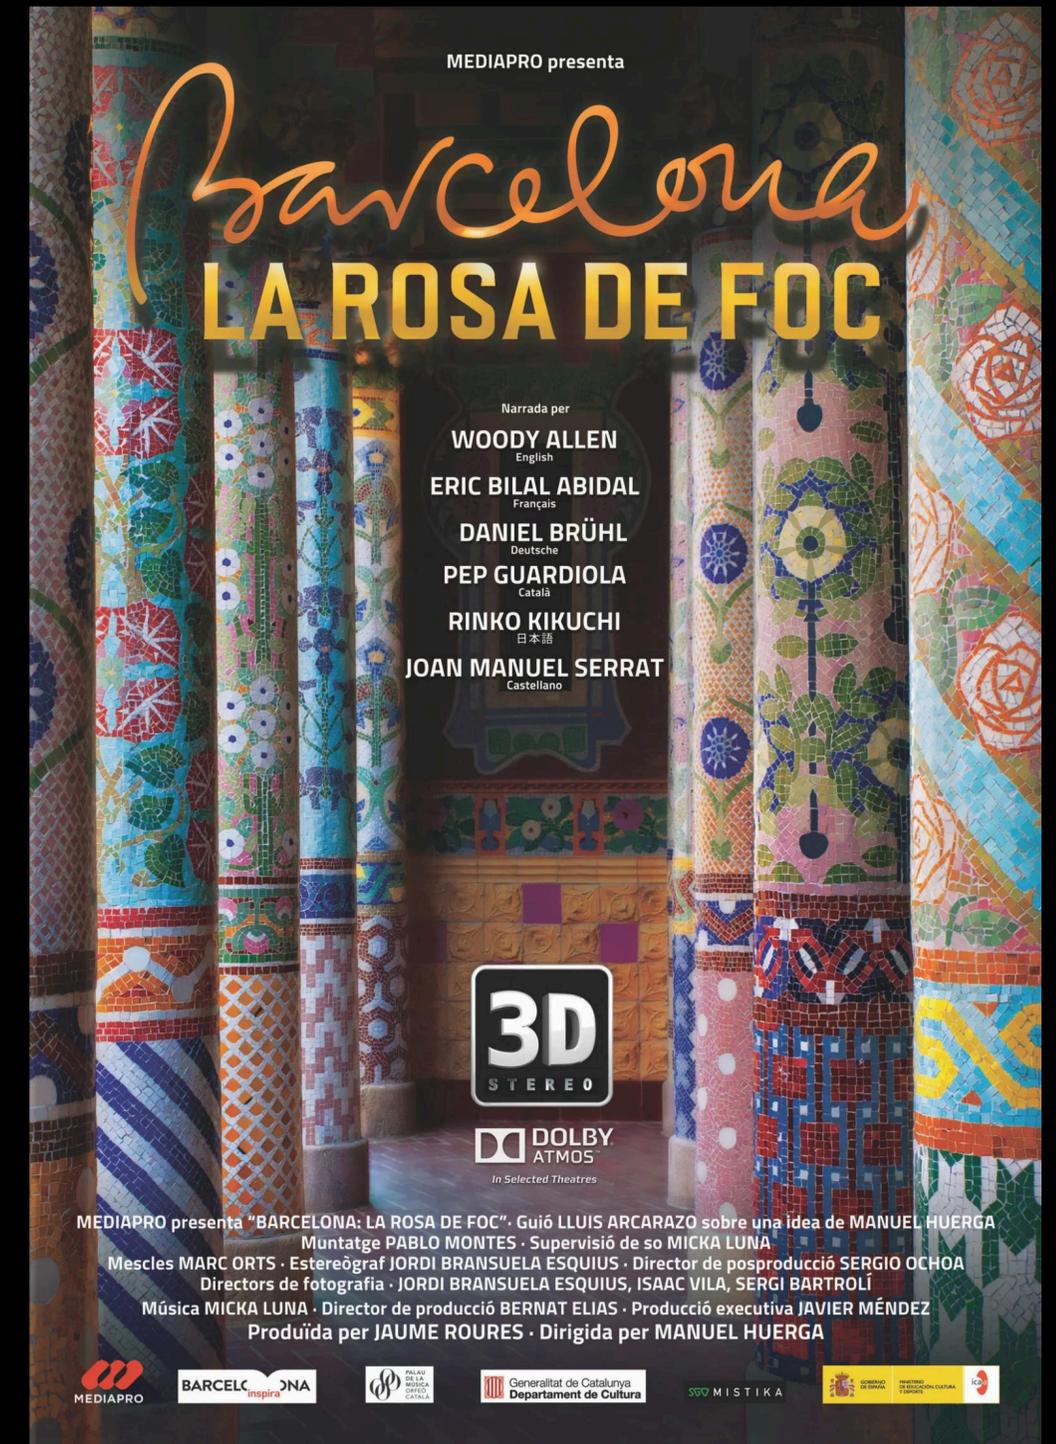

Cast: Woody Allen, Éric Abidal, Daniel Brühl, Pep Guardiola, Rinko Kikuchi, Olga Kurylenko, Joan Manuel Serrat, Benedetta Tagliabue

Producers: Mediapro

What is a city? A question that Woody Allen asks us, in the version of the film narrated in English, and takes us by the hand to enter this trip proposed by Manuel Huerga and the music of Micka Luna. A trip that will take us to discover or rediscover Barcelona as we have never seen it, with the most advanced technology.

Barcelona, La Rosa de Foc portrays many of the faces of this polyhedron that it has become, due to its history and the future of its citizens, who are the protagonists of the life of Barcelona. We walk the streets, squares, bars and markets of a city that is presented to us "conventional and transgressive, exquisite and brazen, elegant and scoundrel".

Documentary

Trailer

THE MEDIAPRO
STUDIO
DISTRIBUTION