The story is set in the 16th Century. King Charles I of Spain is concerned about the increasing level of miscegenation in the Americas. He sends 80 young women to repopulate the New World with Spanish blood. A six year journey will see the women constantly in danger: attacked by pirates, ambushed by Indians and crossing 2000 Km of jungle on foot while facing the threat of the Portuguese for the control of the region. An adventure led by women full of conspiracies and courage, with stories of love and triumph making up the backbone of this series.
