When your world is blown apart, is it possible to put the pieces back together? For two sisters, nine-year-old Liz and seven-year-old Ellie, a beautiful summer day turns dark as they watch a tornado claim their mother's life.

After witnessing the tragedy, Ellie is so traumatized she stops speaking, but Liz forges ahead with her life. She later moves away, earns a PhD in meteorology, and, with her husband Matt, designs a revolutionary storm warning system. Still, Liz is emotionally scarred, and eventually leaves Matt and her life's work, taking their daughter, Becky, home to live with Ellie.
