

Comedy · 2010 · 96' · Spain

What are bears for?

Direction: Tom Fernández

Script: Tom Fernández

Cast: Javier Cámara, Gonzalo de Castro, Emma Suárez, Jesse Johnson, Oona Chaplin, Sira García

Producers: Versátil Cinema, Alta Producción

Guillermo is an internationally-renowned Spanish biologist investigating climate change in Antarctica. Alejandro is a zoologist with less prestige looking for bears in the woods of Asturias (Spain). Science isn't going very well for either of them: Guillermo finds a plant sprouting through the ice. Alejandro can't find any bears in Asturias. They have something else in common: they're brothers. Their paths separated a long time ago, since their personalities clash as much as their scientific methods.

Cinema

Trailer

THE MEDIAPRO
STUDIO
DISTRIBUTION