

Drama · 2013 · 104' · USA

A night in old Mexico

Direction: Emilio Aragón

Script: Bill Wittliff

Cast: Robert Duvall, Jeremy Irvine, Angie Cepeda, Luis Tosar, Joaquín Cosío, Javier Gutiérrez, Jim Parrack

Producers: QUENTIN QUAYLE PICTURES, GLOBOMEDIA CINE, TELEFONICA STUDIOS, SUNMIN PARK / J.ETHAN PARK / MAXMEDIA, FLYWHEEL & SHYSTER

Forced to abandon his ranch and land, Red Bovie (Robert Duvall) rejecting the impulse to become complacent in his old age, hops in his Cadillac and hightails it to Mexico while Gally (Jeremy Irvine) Red's grandson which he has just met, sits shotgun on his grandfather's brash adventure to learn more about him.

Grandfather and grandson start a journey through their respective dreams with a frenzied stop in a Mexican town where they meet Patty (Angie Cepeda), who sees in them the hope for a better life. All of them are accidentally involved in the lives of some shady men (Luis Tosar, Joaquín Cosío, Jim Parrack).

A road-trip, a story about the virtue of surviving and the right of each individual to choose their own ending.

Trailer